Open Space, in Good Supply Here, Creates Administrative Problems

Open Space is possibly the most precious commodity in New Jersey (except for a nice, inexpensive apartment) and Princeton is comparatively rich in open lands, small parks and places that might one day become parklands.

But a vexing question hangs in this pleasant air: "Who's in charge here?"

"Once these open space lands are acquired, there's no overseeing body," says Township Committee member Barbara Smoyer. "More people would be willing to donate land if they could be sure it would be supervised and maintained so that it could be used."

Stream easements along Stony Brook, for example, rambling from Johnson Park across Rosedale Road, skirting the Hun Road section—delightful, but nobody's looking after this brookside walkway. Perhaps a bike path might go this route some day, but should blacktop or concrete be laid down in stream beds?

There's doesn't seem to be any one body to make that decision.

Theoretically, many parks and open space lands are under the eye of the engineering departments of both Borough and Township. A new parking lot, for example, will be laid down by Township engineers for Woodfield. Nature lovers can park the car while they take one of the many long rambles through this wooded, rocky, delightfully wild acreage.

But Township engineers can't be responsible for laying out paths or constructing rustic benches at precisely the spot where foxes have been observed. Fortunately, Woodfield has a dedicated citizens' committee to care for its welfare. But who appoints the citizens and to whom are they responsible?

Mrs. Smoyer has been urging the appointment of one or two people who would sit down with maps and plenty of time, and make an overall study of Princeton's recreation lands.

Back in May, she prepared a memo for this study: (1.) List woodlands and open-space holdings, parks of all sizes, and all passive and active recreational facilities in both Borough and Township; (2.) Evaluate present use and maintenance and recommend the best possible future use; (3.) Recommend what agency should be given responsibility for these lands; (4.) Outline the procedure for setting up this agency, taking into account the present Joint Recreation Commission, the Environmental Commissions of the two Princetons, the citizens" groups now functioning for some of these open space lands, and local groups that have been formed to oversee parks in certain neighborhoods.

"But so much else has higher priority," she observes.

Ten years ago, the Township's Environmental Commission received a $500 grant from the Ford Foundation, allocated through the North Jersey Association of Conservation Commissions, to make a mini-park study. The money was to be matched by $500 from the Township. Nothing has ever been done with the money, Mrs. Smoyer says.

"We could use some of that grant to find out the best possible function these open space lands could serve, and who should be put in charge," she believes. The Township has formally asked the Ford people if the direction of the grant can be

Democratic Victory in Borough Gives Party All Six Seats; Republican Hutter, Democrat Broadwater Elected in Township

A lone Republican in a Democratic sweep, Township candidate Elizabeth (Duffy) Hutter was the only one in her party in Princeton to achieve victory in Tuesday's elections.

And in the Borough, total Democratic victory means a completely Democratic Council for the first time in the Borough's history. The mayor is a Republican, and he'll have to defend the Republican bastions by himself.

Joining Mrs. Hutter for a three-year term on Township Committee will be Democratic incumbent Margaret Broadwater. The two were only 30 votes apart in the final tally, Mrs. Broadwater ahead by 2,852 to 2,822.

Borough victors were Democrats Nelson van den Blink, high on the ticket with 1,857, and Murray Medvin with 1,795. According to Borough figures, Republicans Charles St. John and Mary Stewart Allen tied with 1,346; however, TOWN TOPICS' own tally of Borough figures shows Mr. St. John with 1,342.

Defeated Township candidates Democrat Floyd Rhodes and Republican John McGee won 2,436 and 2,420 respectively. All totals in both municipalities include absentee ballots.

Turn-out Tops Forecast. Voter turn-out was heavier than predicted in both municipalities. In the Borough, 3,294 of the 5,975 registered voters went to the polls: 55.13%. In the Township, where 8,586 voters are registered, 60.86%, or 5,225, cast their ballots. The percentage totals were higher this year than last, by small margins, in both municipalities. Last year, it was 58% in the Township and 54% in the Borough.

In Borough elections, the student vote is still a relatively new factor and in District One, where most students are registered, Mrs. van den Blink and Mr. Medvin took 149 and 134 votes, to the 88 and 82 registered for Mrs. Allen and Mr. St. John.

In mid-afternoon of election day, Borough Democrats were protesting what they regarded as unfair challenges to Princeton University student voters in the district.

Oversight Can Be Costly. Students move from dorm to dorm and sometimes forget to record this change of address within the election district. They can tell election officials at the polls on election day and still be entitled to vote. This only works once, however; students who voted in the 1972 presidential election, didn't vote last year and moved twice, would indeed be ineligible.

Democratic party official Jan Schneier charged that Republican challengers in District One were trying to keep one-move students from voting. Ted Bohlen, Democratic committeeman on campus said about 20 students had been turned away. About 350 students are registered in District One.

The victorious Democrats scored their biggest victory in District Three, which extends east from Linden Lane to Snowden and straddles Hamilton Avenue. The district has had a recent spurt in population with gradual completion of Queenston Common. The Democrats were predictably strong in District Four—the "tree" street area, and District Six, around Leigh Avenue.

Republicans kept their hold on District Eight, the so-called "gold coast" Westcott Road jurisdiction. However, Mrs. Allen received only 15 votes more than Mrs. van den Blink in this traditional Republican district.

Mr. McGee, low on the ticket, won his largest number of votes in District Ten, his home district. Mr. Rhodes was heaviest in District Three, the McCosh Circle area.

County Measure Passes. Looking beyond the borders of Princeton, voters here joined voters in Mercer County to pass the county reorganization referendum. Borough voters said "yes" by 1,820 to 751 and Township voters by a resounding 3,197 to 1,123.

In Mercer County as a whole, the measure passed by 6,002 votes: 40,688 to 34,690.

Fenwick Wins. In the Fifth Congressional District, Princeton Democrat Fred Bohen conceded to Republican Millicent Fenwick at 11 p.m. election night. The total, as TOWN TOPICS went to press, was 59,000 to 47,000. Until returns began to come in, the race had been regarded as close. The Fifth is a traditional Republican stronghold and the seat in Congress was formerly held by Peter H.B. Frelinghuysen.

In Princeton, Borough voters gave Mrs. Fenwick 1,394 votes to Mr. Bohen's 1,655. Township voters were in favor of Mrs. Fenwick by 2,671 over Bohen's 2,440.

Princeton's maverick candidate, Len Newton, won 223 Township votes and 113 Borough votes.

Frank Thompson, in the Fourth District, was an easy victor over Republican Henry J. Keller, while in the 13th District, Helen Meyner unseated Joseph J. Maraziti.

Democratic Freeholder candidates were approved by Borough voters—1,618 for Arthur Sypek and 1,760 for Charles Farrington. In the Township, voters split, favoring Republican Joanne Frazer with 2,465 for the high vote, and Mr. Farrington with 2,351 for the second high. Acupuncture candidate Philip Kaplan got 85 votes in the Township and 52 in the Borough.

changed to allow a study of park facilities instead of mini-parks.

To continue with examples..late this summer, teenagers from the Caldwell Park area, in the far eastern marches of the Township, petitioned Townahip Committee for tennis courts in Caldwell Park. They made a good case: such courts would relieve population pressures on the Community Park courts, cut down on traffic from the eastern Township to Community Park, and so on. They were sent to the Recreation Board with their request.

"But the Recreation Board has no jurisdiction over Caldwell," Mrs. Smoyer points out, "only over Community Park!"

"....and any nther lands Township committee may designate," Mrs. Smoyer continues. Who would build these courts? Borough and Township together, thrashing out the dollar share? Who wnuld maintain them, the Recreation Board or engineering? Who would supervise--should an attendant be there?

And so on.

At one time, Caldwell Park was overrun with mini-bikes, nnd here the police had jurisdiction. Neighbors, living on Dodds Lane, Herrontown or Bertrand, don't want the park to disintegrate (it was originally planned as a place where kids could play softball) but they don't want a big "thing", either, with lights and blacktop and noise and so on.

"There are no policies to guide us," Mrs. Smoyer reiterates.

Collective Program. If Princeton had a Parks Recreation Commission, it would gather the other little parks, like Caldwell, under its umbrella. In the Borough, as it is now, citizens must work through the Borough's engineers if things need to be done for Borough playgrounds.

Last summer, when Borough Council member Barbara Sigmund was developing plans for the more imaginative use of the Harrison Street and John Street playgrounds, she had nobody in town administration to turn to. Engineers aren't retained in order to create imaginative things for kids in playgrounds.

Last spring, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley urged that one body be charged with the planning for all parks and recreation facilities in Borough and Township so that "local parks can become better places for people to enjoy."

Looking ahead, Mrs. Smoyer sees the kind of growth that may come in the Township when the sewer moratorium is lifted, and the Planning Board's village housing concept, or some variation of it, begins to take shape.

"When building starts up again, we'll have cluster housing and the different kind of open space that creates," Mrs. Smoyer points out, "Well, who's going to care for that space? If it's in a development, will it be private open space or public? We should work out these policies now, before the Planning Board makes its final decision on housing. Then we'll be ready."

Casino gambling lost the throw in both Borough and Township by heavy margins: 2,355 "no" to 738 "yes" in the Borough and 4,003 "no" to 1,055 "yes" in the Township.

Green Acres was another strong vote-getter in Princeton: 3,612 votes in the Township to 1,221 "no" and 2,181 "yes" to 733 "no" in the Borough.

Of the six state-wide referendums, only Green Acres and the changed residency requirement were winning.

In Princeton, all except the highway referendum (and casino gambling) were favored. With the dinky commuter line threatened, voters in both Borough and Township voted "yes" on the railroad issue, which could rescue the dinky if Federal officials decide to wipe it out. In the Township, the vote on that one was 3,433 to 1,203 and in the Borough, 2,179 to 688.

Princeton voters rejected the highway bond issue by 1,916 to 935 (Borough) and 3,158 to 1,558 (Township).

Across municipal lines in West Windsor, voters went against the tide and elected Republicans to township committee. Richard Walter and William Royal won three-year terms with 1,768 and 1,586 respectively, over Democrats Grace Singer with 1,459 and Allen McQuarrie, 1,240.

For the two-year term, the winner was again a Republican: Myles Redmond with 1,645, defeated Democrat James Cahill, with 1,374.

In Pennington, Democrat William Laidlaw with 563, and Republican Beverly Thurmond with 530, defeated Republican Paul Scheirer, who tallied 469.

Hopewell Township Committee victors were Michael Arcieri, and Gary Hammond, Democrats. Defeated Republicans were William Kampfer and Robert Sussna.

Dam Didn't Quite Burst, But Advance Information on Course Township's Capital Budget Will Take Indicates Major Leak

It was a raucous audience before Township Committee Monday night, given to loud, derisive and accusative laughter and mysteriously armed with advance information on the Township's proposed capital budget for 1975.

Nobody was quite sure, even a day later, how residents of Dodds Lane, Bertrand Drive and adjacent streets, learned that the budget suggested 1975 completion of the road between Snowden Lane and Route 27.

The budget was completed late last week by the subcommittee charged with its preparation. Members are Township Mayor Jay Bleiman, Administrator Joseph Nini, Engineer Joseph Hodak, Committee member Abbot Low Moffat and Margen Penick, liaison from the Planning Board. It was delivered over the weekend to Township Committee members, some of whom hadn't even had a chance to read it before their phones began to jangle Saturday morning.

The controversial two-segment road is part of the Master Plan's Loop Road, designed eventually to encircle all of Princeton. One segment would be built from Snowden to Bertrand Drive, where it would join an existing strip. The second part would begin at the far end of the strip, at Concord Drive, and continue to Route 27.

The sub-committee updated these two segments to a 1975 completion date from 1978, apparently because of adoption of the Borough's Central Business District master plan. The Loop's destiny is, in part, to divert traffic from Nassau.

A petition against construction of these segments was circulated in the neighborhood over the weekend by Dr. Leroy Hunninghake, 154 Dodds Lane.

"We don't want these roads there EVER!" he told Committee Monday night, "the whole neighborhood is up in arms—99 percent of us are totally opposed."

Earlier, Committee member Margaret Broadwater called for re-examination of the Loop concept, developed in the hey-day of the car. Money could better be used for mass transportation, she said. From the audience, her election opponent, Duffy Hutter, agreed.

Repeatedly, during almost two hours of steamy debate, Mayor Bleiman emphasized that Committee was not voting, only receiving the budget for transmittal to the Planning Board for comment. The budget would then return to Committee where there would be plenty of opportunity for public remarks.

The mayor also said repeatedly that the whole philosophy of future Township growth was at issue, and he urged citizens to take their views to the Planning Board.

But suspicion persisted that Committee and Planning Board might be putting something over on the citizenry.

"We'll go to the polls tomorrow!" shouted Dr. Hunninghake. "Then you'll see how we feel!" But Mrs. Broadwater was the only Committee member up for election and she had already concurred with the views of Dr. Hunninghake and others present.

"Have some consideration for other people who live on busy roads," was the plea of Dr. Henry J. Frank, who lives on busy Valley Road. "If you don't build new roads, people will drive on roads that just aren't constructed for all that traffic."

In the end, Committee promised to reconvene the capital budget sub-committee, although Mayor Bleiman warned this didn't guarantee that the group would change its mind about the loop segment. He said that the sub-committee will make a report at Committee's November 18 meeting.

All members of the capital budget sub-committee deny that they were the leak. Mr. Moffat is out of the country.

BREAK-INS CONTINUE

In Borough and Township. Boroug& and Township police last week investigated about a dozen entries and larcenies, a few of them involving business firms.

In the Township, someone broke a window Thursday between 1:45 and 3:15 p.m. to enter Drumthwacket, 344 Stockton Street. Inside, a crystal chandelier and fire extinguisher were taken. Another extinguisher was used to spray a dining room wall.

In addition, two crystal sconces in a hallway were damaged and an upstair bathroom mirror was broken after an apparent attempt to remove it failed. The entry and damage were reported by Thomas McAden in charge of state-owned buildings.

Township Det. Frank Boccanfuso and State Police are continuing the investigation.

A door jam of a laundry room leading to the home of Milton S. Winters, 89 Poe Road, was split open and another door forced to gain entry.

The living room and master bedroom were searched, police said, and all the drawers pulled out. As yet, police do not have a list of anything taken. The entry was reported by the owners at 7:30 Saturday evening and investigated by Ptl. John Clausen.

It took only ten minutes last week for Alan Smith of 82½ Leigh Avenue to lose a KLH stereo system, which he valued at $100.

The victim told police that he left his house at 9:30 in the evening and when he returned ten minutes later, he saw a man running from the rear door which he had left unlocked. The set was removed from the living room.

Burglar Frightened Off. Sometime after noon, when Mrs. Wen Y. Pan, 106 Ridgeview Circle, left her home last week, an intruder pried open the rear door and stole a calculator valued at $89.

However, as Mrs. Pan returned home at 4:30, she told police that she heard a loud bang in the rear porch area and heard someone leaving the house. "She got there just in time," said Chief Frederick Porter. The calculator was later discovered outside the house.

A basement window was kicked in to enter Pyne Press, 291 Witherspoon Street.

Police report that desk drawers were rifled and a key to a drawer containing a petty cash box was taken but apparently nothing was missing. Det. Norman Servis is investigating.

A tape deck valued at $97 was taken from a car Thursday evening while it was parked in the Princeton Car Wash lot off Alexander Street.

Police identified the owner as Mark P. Hill, 9 Morgan Place, who had been dining at the Rusty Scupper next door. A vent window was forced to enter the car.

Six in the Borough. Borough police listed six entries plus two unsuccessful attempts.

An ax taken from the garage was used to break a plate glass door to enter a home on Westcott Road. Inside, all the rooms were ransacked.

The owners are in the process of compiling an inventory, police said, but known to be missing are a case of gin, a case of scotch, silverware and silver serving sets. The entry was reported at 7:10 Sunday evening.

Sgt. Arthur Gallant conducted a thorough dusting for fingerprints, Chief Michael Carnevale said, and the detective bureau is continuing the investigation.

Two television sets, one a color model, valued at $650 were stolen from a Stockton Street residence, by someone who forced a locked porch door to get inside.

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino is investigating the theft, reported last Wednesday.

Health Store Target. From Hilal's Health Foods store, 164 Witherspoon Street, thieves removed a stereo tape player, two speakers and a large quantity of candy bars and chewing gum.

The owner called police at 12:48 last Wednesday morning to check the store after discovering the front door had been forced open.

A stereo system worth $415 was taken from a first-floor apartment on Witherspoon Lane last week. Entry was made through an unlocked window between 10 p.m. and 12:05 a.m.

Friday evening while a Princeton University coed was in the bathroom, someone entered her room, ransacked it and stole $4.50. In another campus theft in Pyne Hall, reported at 12:15 Saturday morning, someone stole a stereo. The victim told police that the set belonged to a roommate on a semester break.

"Someone had a key; there was no sign of forced entry," Chief Carnevale reported.

A third campus theft failed, police report, after a student, asleep in his room in 1903 Hall, awoke and saw a man in his room. The intruder thereupon jumped out the window where an accomplice was waiting below.

The intruder was described as in his 20's, 5-6, 160 to 170 pounds, wearing a brown leather jacket. The incident took place Monday evening at 5:50.

November weather considerably warmer than usual has produced heavy fog in early-morning hours. The Man offers the thought, however, that this is preferable to the by-product of October weather that was considerably colder than usual heavy frost.

The forecast for the first half of the month calls for temperatures to remain above average. Showers are a weekend possibility, but after the heavy rains for six weeks in later summer, the autumnal season will continue to be drier than normal.

An attempted break-in Thursday evening in the Stanworth area failed when two young men walked into a home and saw the owner inside. The youths fled and ran toward John Street.

One was described as 6-0, slim, with a medium Afro and slight beard, wearing a brown jacket and brown striped trousers. Police have no description for the second suspect.

CLERK, WAITRESS VICTIM Of Wallet Theft. An employee of a Chambers Street store and a waitress in a Nassau Street restaurant were the victims of wallet thefts reported by Borough police.

The employee's red leather wallet was removed between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday from her pocketbook which she had placed under a counter. The wallet, minus $30 and several credit cards, was later found in a private mailbox in a Palmer Square apartment building.

The waitress's brown leather bag was taken from under a counter in the rear of the restaurant. It was later seen on the roof of a canopy of the One Palmer Square building where the thief had tossed it, after first removing $16 and personal papers.

A Pennington resident called police Saturday to report that his 17-year old son had lost $32 when his wallet was removed from his locker while he was swimming between 3 and 4:30 at the Princeton YMCA.

As is the case with most locker thefts at the Y, there was no sign of forced entry. Police report the thief used a key.

THREE ARE ARRESTED In Separate Charges. Borough police last week arrested three persons in separate incidents. All of them were scheduled to appear in Borough Court this Wednesday.

Richard Hall, 19, 118 Leigh Avenue, was arrested in the vicinity of Nassau and Witherspoon Thursday evening and charged with assault and battery after he allegedly struck a Princeton University student, William Scheuch, the complainant.

Police said that Hall had been drinking. He was arrested by Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt answering a call by Ptl. James Agins.

Ten minutes earlier, the same two officers in the same area had arrested Daniel E. Sullivan, 18, of Ringoes, who police said, was allegedly interfering with passers-by. Sullivan was charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Peter Solotorovsky, 28, 39 Humbert Street, was arrested and charged with shoplifting after he allegedly took some boneless chicken and cookies valued at less than $2 from Davidson's Market on Nassau Street.

Solotorovsky was observed by the manager who called police.

FUND AT 35 PER CENT Toward Goal of $645,000. With the total funds collected representing 35.2 per cent of goal as of November 1, Fred Fields, general chairman of the 1974 Princeton Area United Fund-Red Cross Campaign said that he expected the fund to be over the 45 per cent mark by the middle of this week.

The total goal is $645,000.

Leading all divisions again this week is the University, under the leadership of Professor John Marks, with over 49.4 per cent of its goal reported, followed by the Special Gifts division, directed by Mrs. Audrey

New Post Office

The ladies' room in the Princeton Shopping Center will be a Christmas mail room for the holiday season---if all goes as planned----and it will become a permanent post office substation, if Princeton Postmaster Basil Ferrara can obtain Federal approval.

The Center is donating the space, free of charge. It's considerably larger than the vacant store space donated for Christmas use last year, Mr. Ferrara says. What will be done with the fixtures, he doesn't quite know. Removing them would be expensive, and it's possible he may simply partition them from view.

The space is on the parking lot side of the Acme, between the Acme and a barbershop.

What about a replacement for the ladies' room? Township Committee member Barbara Smoyer, who made the announcement at Committee's Monday night meeting, said the Center would divide the men's room in half, do some remodeling, and create a new ladies' room.

First the Good News: Egg Prices Must Have Dropped Sharply!
Now the Bad News: Guess Based on Heavy Mischief Night Use

"I would say there was a little more activity this year than the previous two or three years," commented Borough Chief Michael Carnevale on "mischief night." "However, I don't think it is as bad as it sounds because only a small segment of the kids are responsible for these acts."

Mischief night spilled over into most of Trick-or-Treat night as well in the Borough.

Most of the trouble in the Borough centered in the John Street-Leigh Avenue area, where gangs estimated as high as 100 threw bricks, rocks, bottles and eggs at moving cars including two patrol cars.

The red-flashing light atop a Borough patrol car and roof were damaged by bottles and struck by eggs shortly after 9 when it went to investigate trouble in the Clay Street area.

Rock Endangers Life. In the Township, where there were no arrests, but where most of the vandalism occurred on streets in well-to-do areas, a Township patrol car investigated reports of cars being bombarded with bottles on Leigh Avenue.

As Ptl. Robert Nielsen stepped from the car, a large rock just missed his head and dented the roof of the car. "If he had been hit, it might have killed him...it was that big a rock," commented Chief Frederick Porter.

There was one arrest in the Borough. Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt on Thursday evening around 10:30 stopped a car with three suspects for throwing eggs from their car at other moving cars. The driver, Elliot J. Bollentin of Baker Court, was issued a motor vehicle summons for violating a state law which prohibits throwing debris from a car onto the highway.

A 16-year old girl was also taken into custody Thursday evening for being under the influence of alcohol and hitchhiking at the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon.

This is how portions of the police docket read in the Borough on mischief night: the first report of kids throwing bricks at cars at Witherspoon and Wiggins was logged at 8 p.m. A Moran Avenue resident driving through that area had his rear window shattered.

Numerous Leaf Fires. A leaf fire on John near Lytle differed from the usual leaf fire in that police found a Molotov Cocktail in the pile of leaves after they had extinguished it. Successive leaf fires were reported only minutes apart from each other at Hodge Road, Westcott Road and Hamilton and Horner Lane. Police feel they were set by one person.

A car parked in front of Viking Furniture had its windshield smashed and its body smeared with eggs; a rear license of a car parked on Horner Lane was sprayed with green paint.

A Jamesburg resident called police at 12:15 in the morning to report that eggs hitting her windshield nearly caused her to have an accident on Wiggins Street when she was driving there earlier.

The next evening trouble erupted again around 8 with reports of kids throwing eggs at cars or dropping them into gas tanks near the Choir College.

The driver of a car traveling on Nassau Street near Harrison told police that an object came from a car going in the opposite direction, hit his windshield, spreading a blue liquid all over.

Three young juveniles fled when a guard caught them trying to set fire to an old barn behind Merwick and youths were seen throwing objects at a house on John Street. Later in the evening, after 11, two windows were broken when a bottle was hurled against a front storm door of a John Street home, and a door window was broken by a brick, again on John Street.

In the Township, Chief Porter ticked off the names of streets and the damage: Mason Drive, egg throwing; Caldwell Drive, fires; Balcourt Drive, firecrackers; Edgerstoune, leaf fires; Hussell Road, mailbox damaged; Dodds Lane, eggs, window broken; Fairway Drive, eggs, snaping, firecrackers; Herrontown Road and Crooked Tree Lane, spray paint; Westerly Road, cars filled with leaves, obscenities in soap; Stuart Road, large rocks in roadway; Leabrook Lane, car bombarded with objects from another car; FitzRandolph and Western Way, glass in the streets.

On Valley Road, a resident was harrassed by four juveniles; more eggs at Erdman and Pardoe Road. In the latter, the egg throwers were apprehended and made to clean up their target.

At Leigh and John, an unmarked patrol car was struck by an object and a young woman reported her car hit by a bottle.

Short, with 45 per cent.

The Research and Industry Division, chaired by Dr. Aleck Borman and Harris Barnett reported 37.5 per cent. Other reports are the Education Division under its chairman Alexander Getty, 21.3 per cent, the Building Trades Division, co-chaired by Harry Volwieder and Malcolm Roszel, 23.1 per cent.

Mr. Fields said that early reports show the Mercantile Division, chaired by Kenneth Wells, the Neighborhood Division, lead by Virginia Selden, the Financial Institution team headed by Cornelius Arnett and the Professional Division, chaired by Lowell Curran, are moving up slowly in their percent of goals reported.

Well cared for nails—what do they look like? Well, they need not be elaborately done, but there should be some evidence that they are cared for. The nails on hands and feet should be kept trimmed, clean, and polished for extra strength. Toenails should be cut straight across. Fingernails cut to the desired length should be smoothed with a file to avoid snagging. Too frequent use of detergent and nail polish remover is what causes dryness in nails, so avoid these for really healthy looking hands.

Good nail care begins with the many fine products available at FORER PHARMACY, 160 Witherspoon. Choose nail hardeners, removers, polishes, files and cuticle cutters by the leading makers. We carry a full line of Hudson vitamins at catalog prices. Open daily from 9 to 9 and Sun. from 9 to 3 p.m. Phone 921-7287.

HOMECOMING FOR HULIT'S: Ten months after a fire last February ravished its store at 140 Nassau Street, where it had been ever since the end of World War II, Hulit's Shoes returned home last week to a larger and completely redecorated building. The new interior features wood-grained walls, wall-to-wall carpeting, indirect lighting and easier seating. The architect was William Walker of Walker, Sander, Ford & Kerr and the building contractor Lewis C. Bowers and Sons, both of Princeton. Below at right is Ralph Hulit, president of Hulit's, who has been associated with the business since 1937, and his son, Ralph Jr., who is starting his tenth year. All friends and customers are invited to visit the new store; all the familiar Hulit faces are still there.

"returned to the sender, or directed to the dead letter office if there is no return address," said Mr. Ferrnra.

The postal revision was announced initially on September 30, in an effort to cut down on the tremendous costs being incurred by the Postal Service in handling unstamped mail. The new policy is designed to eliminate the growing practice of sending payments for utility, bank and other bills in unstamped envelopes.

Formerly, any unstamped mail would be delivered to the addressee with "postage due," being returned to the sender only if the recipient refused to pay the postage. In the future, mail that is stamped, but in an insufficient amount, will continue to be delivered "postage due."

CAR HITS BOY, 10

On University Place. A 10-year-old boy was struck by a car at 4:50 Tuesday evening as he darted from the curb at Edwards Place and University Place.

According to Ptl. James Agins, the driver, Matthew A. Bonn, 22, or Newton, and three witnesses told him that the victim, Ignacio O'Donnell, 10 of 10 Maxwell Lane, stepped from the curb into the path of Bonn's car. Ptl. Agins reported that the boy's parents were parked on the opposite side of University Place and had called to him.

Young O'Donnell was taken to the Princeton Medical Center by the First Aid Unit, where he was admitted for x-rays for a possible leg injury.

Mr. Bonn told police that he had no chance to stop. His brakes locked and one of the lines ruptured after his sudden stop, forcing his car to be towed. The mishap is still under investigation.

Complaints Can Be Filed Monday Night at 8- Long Before Next Tax Increase Reaches You

If you want to complain about taxes before they become taxes, go to Township Hall Monday at 8 p.m. and talk with municipal officials about department budgets.

This is the pencil-and-paper postage-stamp part of any town's expenses. For the Township, the requested amount is $211,240 out of a $3 million budget, an overall increase of 21.9 percent since last year.

Public hearing on these departmental budgets is part of the new budgeting system introduced last year.

"It's a chance to gripe about services and a chance to say what you'd like to have cut out," says Gerard Miller, assistant to the Administrator. "By the time the Administrator's budget is submitted on January 7, it's hard for a citizen to make a dent—the process is already half way along."

Your next turn to put in your two cents' worth—or to get two cents' worth removed from the budget—will be Thursday, November 21, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. That's when the joint Borough-Township agencies will lay their budgets before the critics.

In advance of Monday's hearing, you can pick up a copy of these departmental requests in Township Hall. Heads of departments will also be happy to answer whatever questions you have.

Police Budget Up 66 Percent. Police requests account for the biggest dollar increase among Township's departments: $30,546, or 66 percent more than a year ago. The next largest is Engineering with $5,645 more, and the next largest is Building Inspection with $3,288.

The big police item, of course, is replacing patrol cars. Every year, the Township replaces two or three and this year's replacement comes to $6,000. As you might expect, there is a substantial increase in gas and oil expense—$2,725 more than last year—and in vehicle parts—$1,225 more.

Also, the police are asking, once again, for a three-wheeler, the Cushman vehicle like the Borough's. It would cost $2,600 plus $1,100 for a radio unit, and police say it would be great for patrolling bike paths and other small areas where a squad car can't go. Last year's request for a Cushman vehicle was turned down by Township Committee.

Systems Improvement. Communications equipment is another big police item; the budget lists $7,255 for major systems improvement ($5,280), and for various other items, including a consultant ($500) to advise on the new equipment.

"There are low spots in the Township that don't get covered," Mr. Miller explains. "For $2,230, we could raise our present tower and antenna and for $2,000 install a repeater, which would amplify the radio signal when it comes to the antenna, and bounce it back to the field, amplified."

Actually, Mr. Miller says, the Township could shoot its signals up to the Borough, which is on higher ground, and might not then have to raise the Township's own tower. Consolidation without static.

Police have also asked for a new radar unit ($2,400) which would replace the existing system and eliminate the need for a two-car radar patrol. Police also need new tear-gas for $135 (the crystals eventually go bad if not used), and they would like $590 for awards that could be given to officers or citizens who have earned them.

Salaries and wages aren't included in any of these departmental requests, but the police have put in for an additional patrol officer. The $10,000 salary is not part of the $30,000 increase.

"Not building sewers because of the moratorium, or so many roads," says Mr. Miller, flipping through Engineering's requests, "but there's an increased workload: bike paths, flood control projects, work on the capital budget...."

Engineering needs to replace its survey crew van ($5,000) and would like a new traffic counter for $600.

A new car is the chief expense item for Building Inspection, too—$2,900 worth.

Costs Are Inflated. Over every department is the looming shadow of inflation: 10 per cent added to the state road program is entirely traceable to inflation, Mr. Miller says. It's a $2,000 amount, bringing the program to $22,000. The state reimburses about $14,000 of that amount.

Roads themselves require $2,636 more, department heads say. Mr. Miller looks at the $2,200 additional for vehicle parts and the $500 more for repairs and shakes his head:

"Copper and brass pipe are TRIPLING in cost—it's frightening. And maintenance materials like asphalt continue to go up. They want a replacement chipper for $44,500 and a replacement pick-up truck for $5,000."

Speaking of inflation....

"Paper is killing us," Mr. Miller groans. His own administrative-executive department records increases of $400 (photocopy expense); $300 (office supplies) and municipal court has put in $200 more for printing costs.

So, if you think any of this can be, should be cut back, take your case to Township Hall Monday night. They'll be waiting for you.

Take a Look Back

The Library and the Princeton History Project are cooperating with hopes of expanding the record of the past while reaffirming the important role of older residents as tradition-bearers for the community. FINANCE DRIVE OPENED

By Women Voters. The Princeton Area League of Women Voters is opening its annual finance drive, Elaine Bezilla, President, has announced. Each year the League calls upon members of the community to support its non-partisan activities to keep voters informed about issues and candidates.

This year the League mailed over 12,000 Candidates' information sheets to area residents, an effort partially supported by contributions from the First National Bank of Princeton, The Nassau Savings and Loan Association and Princeton Bank and Trust Co. Other Voters' Service activities include non-partisan information about registration and voting in Primary and General elections and organization of Candidates' Nights, where election issues are aired and debated.

The League makes every effort to keep government on its toes and citizens aware of the issues. Open meetings have been held on such subjects as structure of local government, County Charter revision, campaign financing and tax reform.

An observer corps attends all local government committee and board meetings. "Go-See" trips to Trenton are arranged to observe State Government in action. A "Know Your Town" has been published in Princeton and in West Windsor with information about each community and its services and its government. Current studies include Administration of Justice, Land Use and the Executive Branch of Government.

good news
We just received a large quantity of boys' corduroy slacks (the screwdriver style with the belt in back) pre-ticketed $10. In these inflationary times, we find there is value in these rugged slacks - even at $10. Sizes 8 to 16.
better news
Incidentally, we are selling them (with labels and pre-ticket) for $5.
bad news
We were only able to get 100 dozen pair of this unusual buy. Some will be disappointed.

TWO CARS COLLIDE

On Princeton-Kingston Road, Township Ptl. Anthony Gaylord is still investigating a two-car collission Friday afternoon on the Princeton-Kingston Road.

One driver, Nils. E. Lindenblad, 79, 44 Shady Brook Lane, sustained lacerations. The other, Mehrdad M. Moshir, 24, 29 Murray Place, complained of neck pain. The entire front end of the Lindenblad car and the entire rear end of the Moshir car were damaged and both had to be towed from the scene.

Cyclist Hit. Last Tuesday afternoon, an 11-year-old cyclist exiting from the drive of the Littlebrook School ran into a car traveling on Littlebrook Road.

David G. Hill, 33 Tyson Road, sustained bruises to his eye, forehead, right arm and left knee. Township police, in their report, said the young cyclist failed to yield the right of way and there were no charges against the driver, Constance Bartel, 62, of Phillipsburg.

Car Skids into Pole. A skidding car which rammed into a utility pole on Cleveland Lane October 26 brought injury to its passenger.

Jeffrey Tkaes, 17, 252 North Harrison Street, was taken to Princeton Medical Center and treated for multiple lacerations of the right side of his face which he received when his face struck the windshield of a car driven by Robertson Nathan, 19, 32 Witherspoon Lane.

Mr. Nathan told police that he was attempting to round a curve at 12:30 in the morning when the lights from another car blinded him.

In attempting to stop, he lost control. His car jumped the curb and continued to skid on wet leaves at the edge of the pavement until it struck a pole. The car bounced back six feet after the impact, police said.

Mr. Nathan was charged with careless driving. He told police that he was driving 25 miles per hour when the mishap occurred.

Hatchet Job

It was listed in the police docket as a hatchet job. Borough police responded Friday when a caller reported seeing a man with a hatchet beating on a car at Nassau and Cedar Lane. The suspect escaped in an old car but was later stopped by Township patrolmen Howard Sweeney and Peter Savalli.

Later, when interviewed by Borough Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, the suspect said that the hatchet job stemmed from a husband and wife marital problem. There were no charges.

Police said that the couple were from outside the Princeton area.

standing on a corner and hoping a bus will stop.

But there is a simple solution which would put an end to both the undefined stops and to questions about the bus routes. On half the bus stops, print the route of Loop A; on the other, the route of Loop B.

So before the experiment is written off, give it a chance. Without bus stops, I don't think we've given this small dose of public transportation any chance at all.

Correction Offered. To the Editor of Town Topics:

In the account of the Township Zoning Board meeting held on October 23, TOWN TOPICS reported that the Board chairman "confiscated" a tape recorder being used by me. That is untrue. Furthermore, it is seriously misleading because it implies, through your use of the word "confiscated," that there had been something surreptitious in my use of the recorder.

The facts are as follows: I was recording those parts of the proceedings in which I was involved. When the chairman saw that I had the recorder, he read aloud the clause in the Board rules which prohibits recording by members of the audience. I had never heard of the rule until that moment, but I volunteered to deliver the tape I had been using to the Board immediately (which I did) and I suggested that it be erased before being returned to me.

Where Are Your Children? To the Editor of Town Topics:

Do you know where your children are tonight (with your car)?

My update of this trite old phrase results from our experience on the so-called "mischief night."

Our damage was light by most standards. A pumpkin covering a permanent light fixture was removed and thrown against a window shutter. It could have been the window. Our aluminum storage building was peppered with gravel, leaving unsightly dents.

I got to the door in time to see several boys get into a late model, large, blue station wagon, shouting, "Let's get out of here." I can tolerate a lot of tricks with toilet paper, soap, or shaving cream. "Boys will be boys." However, to license vandalism by quasi-adults who are allowed to operate an automobile, is unacceptable to me.

Since I find it hard to believe that such individuals would themselves own a large new station wagon, I would ask that parents owning such vehicles to ask themselves where their kids were that night. I think that all we parents should ask ourselves whether they find any justification for mischief night.

Princetonians Form Rug Society as Collections of Orientals Grow

A journey to the east, from England to India across the dusty trade routes of ancient Persia, through crossroad market towns as old as time, led Dorothy Shepard into the world of the rug traders.

The journey was by Land Rover, not camel or donkey. And Dorothy Shepard was a little bride from Atlanta, Georgia, and not a sharp-eyed rug trader (at least, not then). But that "Journey to the East," as she likes to call it, is still vivid in her mind although it was made ten years ago.

After all, it was on that journey that she and her husband, John, bought their first rug.

"We bought it in Kermanshah, in Iran," she relates. "A place shown on the old trade maps as a crossroads. The rug was about 30 years old and we got it for a very good price. But when we got home, we found it didn't fit in our new house and we didn't really like it as much as we thought, so we learned about rug-trading. We found a dealer. I got my profit, he got his. I got a rug I like."

It's now in the hallway of the Shepard's Princeton home.

This Thursday, Dorothy Shepard will talk about Oriental rugs at 8 p.m. in the lounge of the Engineering Quadrangle under the auspices of the Historical Society of Princeton. The current exhibit in the Society's headquarters, Bainbridge House, is "Oriental Rugs from Princeton Collections."

And Then There Were Two. With the rug bought at Kermanshah safely tucked into the Land Rover, it was inevitable that the Shepards should buy another. The second was purchased in Tehran, and "it has stood the test of time," Mrs. Shepard says, stroking it affectionately after unrolling it on the living—room floor.

But.....

"It was sold as a Shirvan and by design it could be, but a book on Caucasian rugs points out that you really can't go by design, to determine which tribe or town the rug came from. You can tell more accurately by the back of the rug."

She turns back a corner and points to the texture of the reverse. "It's not really flat, you see. If it were a Shirvan, it would be flat. This is slightly corrugated."

According to Mrs. Shepard, it is not hard to distinguish Caucasian rugs (like these), from Persian or Turkoman rugs. But it is indeed hard to differentiate within each, and to pin down precisely which tribe produced the rug. Caucasian rugs are said to be the most difficult of all to identify.

Founding Party. About a year and a half ago, there was a party in Princeton, a "bring your rug" party. It was given by Bruce and Helen Westcott who had just moved to town and wanted to meet some other collectors. The Shepards themselves had a list of collectors' names and it became the the guest list, and the list of charter members in the Princeton Rug Society.

Mr. Westcott, with another collector named Donald Wilbur, actually founded the Society, which now meets every month or so for what Mrs. Shepard calls "show and tell." Mr. Westcott is also president of the Hajji Baba rug club in New York. (Hajji Baba? He's known in rug lore as the "Thief of Ispahan.")

At the monthly meetings in Princeton, members will hear one of their number discourse on a particular geographic area selected for research. If you've got a rug from there, you take it to the the meeting. Members will debate: is your rug really from where you think it is, or not? Is it "good" design or not.

"By 'good design,' we mean, is that the design always used by that tribe?" Mrs. Westcott explains, " or is it mixed and gussied up?"

For example, the Shepards' putative Shirvan has small designs added, making a crowded field. In the 19th century, taste called for a "busier" rug, sometimes with a narrower border or even several borders. The borders themselves were often filled in.

Incidentally, most rugs you can buy now are 19th-century. The 17th and 18th-century rugs have almost all disappeared into museums or into the hands of the wealthiest collectors.

Dye and wool, however, matter more than age, Mrs. Westcott and Mrs. Shepard agree. Around 1860, German itinerant peddlers began taking aniline dyes to the Middle East. These early chemical dyes fade and change color, but vegetable dye will remain true.

"In rugs of lesser quality," Mrs. Westcott says, "you can see fading. The weaver repairing a rug probably matched it well at the time, but with the passing of time the chemically dyed patch will fade.".

Bruce Westcott enjoys repairing rugs, working patiently and painstakingly to match wools and tie the knots just so. A knot tied in the wrong direction, for example, or a knot the wrong size would be --- well, wrong.

To Walk On? Are these rugs really for the floor? Children tracking in dirt, careless guests dropping a cigarette?

"In our house we have 'Bruce's Folly,'" smiles Mrs. Bruce Westcott, "It's nice on the floor. But....."

Mrs. Westcott adds and Mrs. Shepard agrees: "NEVER buy at auction a rug you haven't examined first, the day before. Under those auction lights, it can be so beautiful. But the blue can be TOO blue, and worn fibres colored in with ink."

Collectors often hang their prize rugs on the wall, or fold them away in chests.

The Shepards have Persian donkey—bags from the 19th or early 20th century as covers for casual couch pillows.

"These are Quasghai, a tribe in Iran," Mrs. Shepard says. "You can tell by the way they've designed these birds."

Incidentally, that mid—1960s "Journey to the East" was followed by a 1968 Shepard journey to Afghanistan.

"By then, we'd been to exhibits and read books, and we were really excited. We actually bought a rug that was pictured in a book! Our specialty is Turkoman rugs."

If you want to put a rug on the floor to walk on, these collectors suggest, buy a decorator rug, but try to avoid harsh and glaring colors, even in something as small as a flower petal.

And after a while, although you may not achieve Kermanshah, you may find yourself journeying there in your mind, and in body to the next rug auction.

ART ON THE WALL: Helen Westcott shows a Talish rug, hanging in the Historical Society of Princeton's current rug exhibit. Mrs. Westcott, a knowledgeable collector, will be at the Society every Thursday from 1-4 p.m. If you take your rug to Bainbridge House during those hours, she will talk with you about the rug's special features, and help you determine its origin. You may also take a photograph instead of the rug itself.

News Of The THEATRES

'BLITHE SPIRIT' READY
Opens 4-Day Run Thursday.

The Princeton Triangle Club's third annual fall production, "Blithe Spirit," will open Thursday evening at 8:30 at the theatre in the 185 Nassau Street Building, the old Nassau Street School. The Noel Coward comedy will play for four additional performances this weekend - evenings through Sunday, at 8:30 (8 on Sunday) and Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Directed by Kendall Paine, seven Princeton Triangle Club players take the roles in this classic comedy of manners. Tom Keels portrays Charles Condomine, an English mystery writer who runs into problems with his two wives, Ruth and Elvira, played by Kim Powsner and Barbara Binswanger. Triangle Club veterans Brian Kremen and Sally Sears are cast as a country doctor and his wife who vainly try to help Charles out of his dilemma. Mme. Arcati, an eccentric medium who is the root of Charles' problems, is played by Carla Volpe, a newcomer to the Princeton stage. Nancy Newman, also making her Princeton debut, completes the company as Edith, the traditional cockney maid.

Tickets for the production are on sale at the McCarter theatre box office. General Admission is $3, student seats are available for $2. Tickets will also be sold at the door. For further information and reservations, call 921-8700.

TRAGEDY DATES NEAR Play Opens Next Week.

The McCarter Theatre Company production of "'Tis Pity She's A Whore," the Jacobean tragedy by John Ford, will begin a 10-performance engagement at McCarter on November 14, at 7:30.

The company of 15 is being directed by Michael Kahn. The opulent Renaissance settings and costumes have been designed by Robert U. Taylor and Lawrence Casey, respectively, with the lighting provided by John McLain.

A play long overlooked as the masterpiece it is because of its theme of incest, "'Tis Pity She's A Whore" is Ford's greatest play. Rich in color, drama and pageantry, it is filled with the violent emotions of a violent era, and earned Ford the right to be considered one of Shakespeare's greatest contemporaries. Even in today's permissive society, "'Tis Pity She's A Whore" remains a beautiful and action-packed evening of theatre.

DOLLY IS NO. 2
Second Only to "Fiddler."

"Hello, Dolly!," the second longest running show in Broadway history, will open a four performance engagement at McCarter Theatre on Thursday, December 5. The Jerry Herman musical will be the 17th PJ&B musical--and the 16th to be directed by Milton Lyon, originator of the PJ&B productions.

Based on Thornton Wilder's play "The Matchmaker," "Hello, Dolly!" opened on Broadway in January, 1964, and ran for a total of 2,844 performances, a record surpassed only by "Fidler on the Roof," which was performed by the PJ&B Players in 1971. Returning to the PJ&B cast to play the title role of Dolly Levi, after an absence of several years, will be Anne Sheldon, a charter member of the PJ&B Players and a veteran of seven past productions, including "Guys & Dolls," PJ&B's first presentation in 1961.

Mrs. Sheldon will be remembered for her portrayals of Ruth in "Wonderful Town" (1965), Ensign Nellie Forbush in 1968's "South Pacific," and as Mrs. Anna in "The King and I" (1966). She was also seen in "Anything Goes" (1962), "Gypsy" (1963), and most recently as the Mayor's Wife in the 1969 production of "The Music Man." Assitional principals in the cast will be announced next week by director Milton Lyon.

Tickets for all performances, which include a Saturday matinee on December 7, are now on sale at McCarter.

STOPPARD

At Intime. A pair of Tom Stoppard comedies, "The Real Inspector Hound" and "After Magritte," will be on stage this weekend at Murray Theatre under the banner of Theatre Intime. Opening night is this Thursday at 8:30, and the plays will play again Friday and Saturday, and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"The Real Inspector Hound" is described by Intime as "a hilarious and bewildering romp through the worlds of drawing-room society and backstage." "After Magritte" involves a case of mistaken identify, or maybe even non-identity, in the lives of two ballroom dancers and their tuba-playing mother.

Mitchell Ivers is directing. Actors are Eric Zwemer, Kimberly Myers, Jamie Horton, Kathy Mendeloff and Winnie Holzman.

COMEDY DUE AT HUN
Woody Allen Show in Rehearsal.

The Hun School Drama Department will present the two-act comedy "Don't Drink the Water" on Friday and Saturday, November 15 and 16, at 8 at the Hun School auditorium, Russell Road.

Written by Woody Allen and produced on Broadway by David Merrick, the play takes place inside an American Embassy behind the Iron Curtain. An American tourist, a caterer by profession, his wife and daughter rush into the embassy ahead of the secret police who suspect them of spying and picture-taking. But it is not much of a refuge, for the ambassador is absent and his son, who has been expelled from a dozen countries and the whole continent of Africa, is now in charge. Nevertheless, they carefully and frantically plot their escape back to America with the help of a priest, who doubles as an amateur magician.

Gregory Golda is directing a cast which includes Sue Pulton, Kim Enders, Dave Eisenstein, Ken Baggaley, Natalie Usiskin and Steve VeShancey as well as Karen Friedman, Ted McNulty, Joe McCauley and Gayle Zinder. Admission is $1.

Players Plan Open House Sunday To Mark Opening of New Season

As a preliminary to its season-opening production of Karel Capek's "R.U.R." on November 15, the Princeton Community Players invites the public to an open house, with refreshments, at its new headquarters located at 171 Broadmead, Sunday from 4 to 6.

One aim of the open house is to let people see where Community Players offerings will be given thsi year. Its new home lies to the east of Palmer Stadium, Broadmead being a continuation of Princeton Avenue toward Carnegie Lake. Guests on Sunday will se a stage being built, with the Players' Production staff, led by Curt Hall, working to transform the former Princeton Country Day School study hall into an intimate theatre in time for the November 15 opening.

The cast which Director Norman F. Washburne has assembled for "R.U.R." is unusual in that newcomers to the Players will fill 10 of the 12 main roles. The scene of the play is a remote island factory engaged in creating artificial men and women (robots) to be osed as workers. A woman visitor from the Homanity League--Helena Glory--becomes involved in the affairs of the robots and their makers.

This important part will be played by Marie-Claire Kamin, who attended French Drama School in Paris, appeared in TV shows in Ottawa and Toronto, and directed her own adaptation of "Le Petit Prince" at McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario. The male lead—Domin, manager of the factory—will be Pierre Mali, head of the Language Department at Princeton Day School. His stage experience embraces both acting and technical work, expecially scenery and lighting.

Jim Bantham, playing Alquist, has performed with the Stagecrafters nf Germantown, Pa., and with the Abington (Pa.) Music Theater. Frank Grubic, cast as Dr. Gall, has appeared frequently with the Martinsville Players. Keith Tucker, playing Dr. Hallemeier, is with Station WHWH in Princeton.

A Community Players veteran at the age of 16, John Wible—playing Radius, a robot—was seen previously in "The Tea Party," "Madwoman of Chaillot," and "Everything in the Garden." He has acted as well for the Street Theatre and at Princeton High School.

Mildred Easton, who first joined the Community Players in 1935 after studying at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, will play the part of Nana. Others in the cast are Bonnie Breier, Kndy Demko, Roger Lipman, John Flint, Scott Marshall, Anne Bredon, Mary Lou Wisheski, Bea and Ted Washburne.

Perfnrmances of "R.U.R." are scheduled for November 15, 16, 17, 22 and 23, at 8:30. Tickets may be reserved by phoning 924-5976 (till 5:30 p.m.) and 896-9746 (evenings).

"DON JUAN IN HELL"

Due at Lawrenceville. The Chivers Program Series at The Lawrenceville School will sponsor a production of George Bernard Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell," on Thursday and Friday, November 7 and 8, in the Kirby Arts Center on the school campus.

Performances begin at 8 p.m. There is ample parking, and admission is free.

"Don Juan in Hell" is the popolar name ascribed to the third act of Shaw's play "Man and Superman." It is almnst never included when the play is performed, and when performed by itself, is usually done as a straight reading because of the length and difficulty of the speeches and their philosophic content.

The production being planned for Lawrenceville will depart from custom by including some lighting effects, stage business, and a little Mozart. But director James Blake points out, "The emphasis will remain on the oratorio for four voices and the wise and witty Shavian dialogue."

Featured in the production are Thomas J. Johnston (Don Juan), Ben Briggs (the Devil), Alherta Stehle (Dona Ana), and George Diehl (the Commander), all of Lawrenceville.

Other programs to be presented by the Chivers Programs are Dr. Wendell Taylor, Lawrenceville's own internationally recognized authority on crime fiction, his topic, "Crime as an Avocation," and is scheduled for January 21.

On February 4, Glenn Satty will present a program on Lewis Carroll, "Alice in Wonderland" and their effect on the arts. Satty is a member of Lawrenceville's math department. Edward A. Stehle, of Lawrenceville's history department, will conclude the series on April 22 with a lecture entitled "The Quest for the Key to Cleo's Closet, or 1901, the Time Odyssey of the 19th Century Thinkers."

PLAYHOUSE

Gone With the Wind. More than three hours of Rhett Butler and Scarlet O'Hara before, during and after the Civil War as it affected the South. First released in 1938, it is still one of the greatest pictures ever made.

Staring Clark Gable in his prime as Rhett, Vivien Leight, as Scralett, Leslie Howard as Ashley and Olivia de Haviland as Melanie.

GARDEN

The Seduction of Mimi

Despite the title, this is not a sex film--although the funniest scenes do center around sexual matters--nor a film about a woman. Actually, the film is about the rise and fall of a blue-collar metal worker named Mimi and his encounters with women, politics, the Mafia and his fellow workers.

Living with his stupid, boring sex object of a wife and a horde of relatives, Mimi impulsively decides to vote against the Mafia-supported candidates in his town. Consequently, he is forced to move to another town where he becomes a Communist, falls in love with a beautiful, independent woman who becomes his lover, and he has to set up another household.

Back home, his wife becomes a new woman in his absence and has also taken a lover. What follows is a series of espisodic scenes the funniest of which is Mimi's attempted seduction of his wife's lover's gargatuan wife. All of this is wonderfully acted by the performers, particularly Giancarlo Giannini as Mimi. With English subtitles.

PRINCE

Deep Throat and The Devil in Miss Jones. Two hard-core porno flicks, X-rated and definitely for adults only. When the Prince first ran "Deep Throat" a few years ago, it created a stir and an article in the New York Times as one of the early examples of a prestigous "Princeton" theater showing a hard-core porno picture.

"Deep Throat" made a household name of its star Linda Lovelace (How far does a girl have to go to untangle her tingle?) who proved she could go farther than anyone else. Of the two, "Deep Throat" has more humor. In fact, a good case could be made for it as nothing more than pure camp and not pornography at all.

"The Devil in Miss Jones" is technically better and has more variety.

PRINCE

Odessa File. Like the "Day of the Jackal" by Frederick Forsyth, which was supposedly based on a true incident, "The Odessa File," Forsyth's second book, is also based on real incidents.

But where "Jackal" was made into a highly-polished and satisfying thriller on the screen, "Odessa" lacks the precision and suspense of the former. Its plot is contrived, the action, aside from a few scenes of pursuit, is slow-moving and the total effect unsatisfying.

In the film, Jon Voight plays Peter Miller, a German journalist who tracks down a former SS commandant of a Nazi concentration camp. On the surface, Miller's pursuit is to assoage the contemporary German conscience, but his search is so dogged to find SS Captain Eduard Roschmann, played by Maximilian Schell, that everyone along the line, as his personal danger increases, asks "Why."

Voight gives a solid but unemotional performance as Miller, who is allowed no humanity. Mary Tamm is effective as his mistress.

There was an Odessa organization in Germany--the time of the film is 1963--which provided a cover for former Nazis now living as respectable citizens. The Odessa File is the list of assumed Nazi identities...it offers the germ of an exciting movie, but for this we'll still have to wait.

TEACHER? PARENT?

MUSIC In Princeton

JOINT CONCERT PLANNED

By Glee Clubs on Friday. The Glee Clubs of Harvard and Princeton will mark the biggest home football weekend of the year with a joint concert Friday at 8 in Alexander Hall. Both clubs will present versatile programs of classical, folk and traditional college songs, culminating in the combined singing of the alma maters of both institutions.

The Harvard Glee Club, still an all-male group, will sing "Jagdlied" by Mendelssohn, a charming 1800's hunting song; "Lamentations" by the Renaissance composer Palestrina, a work written for the second lesson on Good Friday; "Two Masonic Choruses" by Mozart, one of which is an outstanding, yet unknown composition; and various folksong arrangements, among others.

The folksongs will include "There Is a Balm in Gilead" by William Dawson; "Makedonska Humoreska," a Serbo-Croatian folksong arranged by Slakovski; and the famous "Shenandoah" arrangement by Marshall Bartholomew.

Hundredth Anniversary. The Princeton Glee Club, a full-sized mixed chorus, is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year, having already completed a successful summer tour of Europe and an All-Schoenberg Concert in Washington at Kennedy Center Concert Hall in September. It will first sing "Miriams Siegesgesang" (Miriam's Song of Triumph), a major work of Schubert, dealing with the Exodus from Egypt and the destruction of the Israelites by the Pharaoh. It is written for mixed chorus with piano accompaniment and a soprano soloist, who will be Charlene Cosman '76.

The second half of the Princeton program will feature works by Arnold Schoenberg and Gustav Holst, two composers born in 1874, the year the Glee Club was founded. These include "Dreimal tausend Jahre," a brief 12-tone work; and "Three German Folksongs" (Opus 49), by Schoenberg, both previously sung by the group in Washington. The two folksong settings by Holst to be performed are "I Love my Love" from Cornwall, and "There was a Tree," a Hampshire round.

Tickets are on sale at the U. Store box office and will be available at Alexander Hall on the night of the performance at prices of $3 for reserved, $2 general admission, and $1 for students.

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

Next Wednesday. The Music Club of Princeton will meet at the home of Mrs. Thomas Cook on Wednesday, November 13.

Peter Cook, clarinet; Edward Helms, bassoon; and Dorothy Kovacs, flute, will play Three-Part Inventions by Bach. A group of songs by Debussy will be performed by Laura Hayes, soprano, and Cecile Herman, piano.

To conclude the program, Francine Swartzentruber will play the Bach Violin Concerto in A Minor. She will be accompanied by Jane Hannauer and Mary Anne Walker, violins; Frank Gross, Viola; John Kalajian, cello; Rogers Woolston, bass; and Margaret Lambert, continuo.

COUNTRY MUSIC COMING

Friday Night. The Hotmud Family, old-time country musicians, will appear in concert on Friday at 8:15 at the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church. The event is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

The Hotmud Family's repertoire is a collection of old-time country music from unaccompanied ballad-singing to early bluegrass. Dave and Suzanne Edmunson, Tom Campbell, and Rick Good perform with fiddle and banjo, bass and guitar, mandolin, autoharp and steel guitar.

They have won ribbons in the Galax, Virginia, Old-Time Fiddlers Convention for the past two years, and placed first in the Old-Time Band competition at Renfro Valley, Kentucky, this year. In addition, they were featured

One of the six choirs at Westminster Choir College, the ensemble of 20 singers was formed during the 1973-74 season and specializes in the performance of Romantic and Contemporary literature, though during recent concerts it has performed larger works from both the Renaissance and the Baroque periods.

The Chambers Singers will present dramatic scenes: "Woman, Why Weepest Thou?" by Heinrich Schutz; "Plorate filii Israel" from Jepthe by Carissimi; Eccard's "Presentation of Christ in the Temple;" and Orlando Gibbons' "The Cryes of London;" two works by Offenbach, two by Scott Joplin, and "In Windsor Forest" by Ralph Vaughan Williams.

Dennis Shrock, who conducts the ensemble, is an assistant professor of conducting. He holds a Bachelor of Music Education degree in voice from Westminster, and a Master of Music degree in choral conducting from the University of Indiana where he is completing work toward a Doctor of Music degree.

This past summer, Mr. Shrock trained a group of 240 American singers who subsequently toured Romania and gave a final concert under Mr. Shrock at the Radio and Television Theatre in Bucarest.

TEA POTS ON VIEW

At Country Antiques. Every antique dealer has a few periods or particulars that he favors, and Eleanor Waddell is no exception. Recently she enthusiastically arranged Country Antiques' windows to reflect three of her loves -- tea pots, early New Jerseyana, and children's book illustrators.

On October 5, 1774, residents of Greenwich, in Cumberland County dressed as Indians and staged their own version of the Boston tea party against the British ship, Greyhound. With the Bi-centenaial very much on everyone's miad, Mrs. Waddell decided to commemorate this event.

This was also appropriate because Mrs. Waddell has excelleat tea pots. She said, "Of all the things I own, the tea pots are probahly the best."

The attractive window has a range of tea pots including a black embossed English Jackfield one; a white soft paste model decorated with a tiny green aad blue flower sprig design ($38); a good historical blue pot; a silver luster one; and a rose canton tea pot that Mrs. Waddell honestly says "is not bad, but it is not as early as I would like."

TEA PARTY: To commmemorate Greenwich, New Jersey's 1775 version of the Boston Tea Party, Country Antiques has displayed its lovely collection of tea pots, cannisters and handleless cups.

"Queen Anne Pocketbooks." She is as quick to point out the drawbacks of a particular piece as to show its virtues. She is aghast at the high prices she often finds, and said, "I try not to cheat people. We try to help people with 18th century tastes, but without Queen Anne pockethooks."

However, this does not mean that everythiag here is inexpensive, because rare and high quality items always carry a book value. For instance, the finest tea pot in the window is a soft paste Gaudy Dutch one that two years ago was valued at close to $1,000.

In this window we also saw early tin tea cannisters that possibly were in use at the time of the Greenwich tea party; and handleless cups and saucers such as a lovely Salopian one picturing a green country scene that reflects the Chinese influence of this period, $65.

The New Jersey window features a stoneware jug with blue decoration from A. J. Buttler of New Brunswick; a country windsor arm chair made in 1805 by S. Roberts of New Mills, (now Pemberton); a Richard Jordan pitcher; and some early New Jersey maps.

Original Watercolor. Country Antiques is fortunate in having an original watercolor by Jesse Wilcox Smith of one of the "Water Babies" illustrations. It shows a lovely nude child on a long soft green blanket, aad it has been framed.

With the watercolor are some early books illustrated by Jesse Wilcox Smith, such as "Heidi," "Children of Dickens," and "A Child's Garden of Verses."

Mrs. Waddell has also collected many books illustrated by Arthur Rackham. There is "Poor Cecco," the story of a wooden doll and a puppet dog, and "Arthur Rackham's Fairy Book" in which he has illustrated all his favorite stories. While these books cost about $30, they provide excellent literature and superior illustrations.

Wandering about the store we saw many other varied choices including a lady's slipper chair, old marionettes in their original clothes, hump-back trunks perfect for quilts or even toys, and a pretty six-legged drop leaf maple table from New Hampshire.

MEET THE DESIGNERS

At Hamilton Jewelers. The second of Hamilton Jewelers' "Meet the Designers" shows began Wednesday with Dean Rochholz displaying his extensive collection of Southwest Indian jewelry.

Mr. Rochholz, an authority on this jewelry, intends to illustrate the difference between inexpensive mail order pieces and original hand-crafted Indian jewelry. In general, the mail order houses offer mass produced copies of an original piece while true Indian jewelry is individually made so that no two are identical.

There is a meaning to each piece of Indian jewelry and Mr. Rochholz will also answer questions about this. For instance, fetishes were to protect the Southwest tribes from the animals they believed to be inhabited by supernatural beings.

The collection includes bracelets, necklaces, rings, earrings, pendants and belt buckles from four tribes–the Navajo, Zuni, Hopi and Santo Domingo, and the prices range from $3 to $1,750.

Hamilton Jewelers carries a line of original Indian jewelry, and a percentage of each purchase is returned to the Indians. In addition, each piece comes with an appraisal sheet.

This show, which is here through Saturday, November 9, will be followed by a workshop with two young New York designers on November 30. While you watch, these designers will create a necklace of your own design using 14 kt gold, sterling silver, various stones, tubes or beads.

Celia Sebiri Coming. Then on December 7, Celia Sebiri, winner of the Cuty Award, will be here with her sleek, sculptured sterling silver jewelry. She is one of the top New York designers, and Hamilton Jewelers is fortunate in being the only New Jersey store to carry her full line.

This is an exciting contemporary collection which will soon include newly-mined stones from Colorado. These stones are quite unusual because by taking on the characteristics of their environment they appear to have been painted.

These shows are becoming a regular feature at Hamilton Jewelers' Lawrence store, and one showing the use of minerals (such as lapis, jade and malachite) in everything from necklaces to bookends is already being planned for December 12-14.

As an added attraction, you can have some wine and cheese while you view these shows. Hamilton Jewelers, located on Route 1 at Texas Avenue, is open Monday through Friday from 10 to 9, and Saturday from 10 to 5:30.

David Hapgood, formerly of Princeton, is the author of a new book, "The Screwing of the Average Man," published by Doubleday. "The cards are stacked," says the advance publicity, so that things we do all the time--paying taxes, going to school, driving automobiles, playing the stock-market, opening a bank account or buying life insurance--can result in our being rooked without knowing exactly how, why or when it's happening."

"The best account I have seen," writes Russell Baker in a testimonial, "of how the system is rigged from maternity ward to beyond the grave to keep most of us broke so the rich can go on getting richer. Only a person with more than $200,000 a year can read it without weeping."

Mr. Hapgood, editor for the Washington Monthly, was formerly a staff writer for the New York Times and an evluator for the Peace Corps.

Presentation was made for contributions to the advancement of science, engineering, or human welfare through the application of acoustic principles, or through research accomplishment in acoustics.

The citation to Dr. Olson states, "...For his innovative and lasting contributions in microphones, loudspeakers, sound reproduction, and electronic music, his many publications, and his constructive editing."

He joined RCA Laboratories in 1928, starting in the Research Department. When he retired in 1967, he was staff vice-president of the Acoustical and Electromechanical Laboratory. He has stayed with RCA as a consultant.

The election of Robert G. Jahn, Dean of Princeton University's School of Engineering and Applied Science, as a Fellow of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics was announced this week. His election to the Institute was in recognition of his "many outstanding contributions and acknowledged leadership in the professional aerospace community." Dean Jahn is widely known for his pioneering work in the field of electric propulsion, a means for the exploration of the solar system and deeper space.

In 1971 at the age of 41 Dean Jahn became the fourth Dean of the School of Engineering and Applied Science which traces its lineage back to the founding of Princeton's John C. Green School of Science in 1874. The School now has approximately 650 undergraduates and 200 graduate students.

ART
In Princeton

PLEASING THE EYE

McCarter Display Enjoyable. Texture is the third dimension in art. Variety of surface effects lend depth and intensity to shadow and form. Surface elements also trigger personal imagery when well used and expand the viewing experience.

In graphics, painting and sculpture, surface effects can be used to create spatial divisions, complement the forms and objects represented or provide optical changes which alter the impact of color and design. However it is used, judiciously employed texture always adds to the final visual value of a work of art.

The current display at McCarter Theatre is called Texture. It includes all media that employ surface changes and provides an interesting and varied display of the many ways in which texture can be used. Among the more interesting types of work on display are works in which textural effects form the major element in the piece. These include sand casting, assemblage and wood constructions.

Paintings in the display include those which use the introduction of foreign materials such as sand into the paint to create surface. The addition of textural pieces such as fabric, paper and string as well as the use of paint itself are used to create other textures. The paint is often controlled by sculpting the surface, for a three-dimensional representation, applying it richly, or applying with tools other than a brush.

Graphics include the representation of texture through the use of wood and other roughly textured materials as the printing surface together with a display of blind stamping effects in which inkless printing creates a relief form. The use and importance of texture in weaving is also displayed.

The total effect of the exhibit can only be described as a pleasurable eyeball massage. Effects created by natural surfaces, the creative process revealed through combinations of shadow and shape producing materials and three dimensional forms all meld into the ultimate texture that is the vibrant interaction between many different artistic forms.

At the Eye for Art. Graphics by Mayumi Nathan are a happy blend of Japanese art forms and contemporary techniques. This artist bases her collection of etchings and silk screen around ladies. There are Japanese ladies, American ladies and ladies in the mirror along with just plain ladies.

The style employed and techniques developed in each of the series reflect the nature of the subject. The Japanese ladies are rendered in a calligraphic line with classical flower forms and design elements. The American ladies are slightly harder and brighter and employ different colors and stylistic effects. Both are well designed and the hard edge of silk screen is softened through the muted blends of well combined colors.

Miniature etchings of ladies reflected in mirrors combine aquatint, soft color and linear design. Again, the classical Oriental cast of these delicate works is made contemporary through technique and design.

At Assemblee. Quilts, theater posters, some graphics and an ecclectic collection of jewelry and fanciful objects are the mainstay of the newest Princeton Gallery, located on Spring Street. Antique and new pieces are collected with an eye towards style and contemporary fashions in objects.

At Apogee. Apngee is featuring graphics by Terry Parmelee in the current display. A range of style and media are included with woodcut and silkscreen predominating.

The artist carries the influence of different styles and teachers in her work. The resulting prints which are skillfully executed, reflect many different stylistic approaches and ventures into both color and tone. Paremelee has yet to make a definite statement about her subject but technical assurance is present.

At The University Museum. Two drawing exhibitions, Baroque and Venetian, differ somewhat in style. Both are small but dramatic collections of fine draftsmanship.

The Venetian show spans several centuries and reflects changes in subject more than style. Mythology and religion prevail with landscape and figurative works also to be seen. Studies for works in progress as well as intricate, carefully wrought drawing is included.

The display of baroque drawings includes work by Spanish, Italian, Dutch, French and Flemish artists. Differences in subject and style are often apparent. The high drama that is characteristic of the baroque is not always present in these small works, but interesting, finely-wrought techniques in several media form a pleasing grouping.

GORELEIGH AT SUSUKI

Exhibit Opens Sunday. Susuki Gallery, 32 Main Street, Kingston, will present a display of the work of Rex Goreleigh. Best known for his oils and watercolors depicting migrant workers, he will be on exhibit from Sunday, November 10, through Sunday, November 23.

Mr. Goreleigh, a long-time resident of Princeton and owner of the Studio-On-The-Canal, has always been interested and involved in furthering talent and recognition of his fellow artists.

Born in Pennsylvania in 1902, he attended the University of Chicago and is presently at Livingston College on an honorary grant. His art education was varied; he studied in France, Germany, Chicago and New York.

A list of Mr. Goreleigh's exhibitions include those at the Trenton Museum, Newark Museum, Lambertville House, Little Gallery of Princeton, Montclair Museum, Strindberg Gallery, Helsinki, Finland

He has been a lecturer and teacher for many years, conducted a Title I Project in Art for the Trenton Board of Education, and has received numerous awards for his work

RECEPTION SATURDAY

At Loft Gallery. The Loft Gallery Center for the Arts will present an exhibition of paintings and sculpture by Agnes Egan, Mary Sheean and Campbell Paxton. The opening reception will be on Saturday from 2 to 5 at 306 Alexander Street.

Agnes Egan lives in Navesink, where she captures the excitement of her surroundings in realistic compositions. The subtle weathered colors and gingerbread architectural details of old homes are meticulously created.

Mary Sheean, who lives in Middletown, works in pencil, watercolor, pastel and oils. She has concentrated on portrait painting for ten years and has filled numerous commissions. Many pieces are worked within an oval form and a mood of fantasy is created with sensitive line and gray tones.

Campbell Paxton, of Princeton, spends his time working at a foundry in New York. He casts his statuary in bronze and sterling silver and uses only mythological characters. Included are the delightful Pan and Bacchus, the powerful Zeus and Paris, and the romantic Leda and the Swan and Europa and the Bull.

The exhibit will be on view until December 10.

Princeton, Having Come Unglued against Brown, Unlikely to Give Harvard Close Game Saturday

FIRST OF FOUR: A solid block on this Mike Stein punt in the first quarter at Providence gave Brown a safety when ball rolled out of the end zone. Bruins then proceeded to deflect another punt, block an attempted field goal and p.a.t., the six point-swing proving decisive in their 17-13 triumph. (Bob Matthews Photo)

Princeton's football team, its rebuilding program at the moment thoroughly derailed, faces its most difficult assignment of the season Saturday when the best Harvard entry the Ivy League has seen in six years comes to Palmer Stadium. Having been convincingly upset by Brown, the puzzling Tigers are now in serious danger of losing their last five in a row after having completed their first four games this season undefeated.

The Crimson has had a solid offense all fall, but finally put its defensive alignment in apple-pie order last week with an astonishing 39-0 whitewash of Pennsylvania. This was the same Quaker team that had been setting a variety of records in the Penn book, and, among other accomplishments, had run up a combined total of 48 points against Cornell and Princeton.

QUICK LOOK AT HARVARD

OFFENSE: Solid. Fine passing of quarterback Milt Holt and threat of Pat McInally blends with capable running game.

DEFENSE: After shaky start, has matured impressively, as shutout of high-scoring Penn indicates.

CHIEF ASSET: Manpower. Crimson is always deep, particularly for Ivy team, and invariably has several topflight players.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Tradition of failing to win the big one. In 18 seasons, Harvard has never won Ivy title outright.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Power I

Harvard's ability to improve steadily from week to week ranks the Crimson as a clear-cut co-favorite with Yale for the 1974 Ivy title, particularly since the game between the two teams now tied for first place will be played at Cambridge. Coach Joe Restic's team has lost, where Yale has not, falling a 24-21 victim to Rutgers after defeating Holy Cross in its opener.

Thereafter, Harvard ran over Columbia, needed a volatile offense to defeat Cornell, 39-27, when both teams had defensive difficulties, and then stood off improving Dartmouth at Hanover, 17-15. Last week's total rout of Penn, which had championship aspirations, was the biggest surprise of the season in Ivy action.

McInally a Real Star. While there are a number of major assets on Harvard's attacking unit, 6-5 Pat McInally, the Crimson's fine split end, is the real standout. He is often all but indefensible on pass receptions (six of which he has converted into touchdowns) but in addition, his 40-plus average and position-kicking as a punter rank him as one of the best in the east. McInally will almost certainly be a high draft pick when the NFL machinery goes into motion next January.

The quarterback who has made the Crimson go this year is Milt (The Pineapple, because he's from Hawaii) Holt, who is, among other things, a topflight left-handed pitcher on the championship Harvard nine. With 967 yards and 13 touchdowns to his credit, Holt is possibly the league's best quarterback, even though he does not lead the statistics.

Harvard features depth among its running backs, rather than an individual ball carrier who ranks head and shoulders above the others. The principals are Tom Winn and Alky Tsitsos, and together with several reserves, they have combined to give Harvard a nearly perfect balance between running and passing.

SPORTS In Princeton

Defensively, Restic appears to have eliminated the problems that were plaguing his squad when the season began, as the sharp downward trend in points allowed indicates: 27 to Cornell, 15 to Dartmouth and nary a one to Penn. This bodes all kind of evil for the stuttering Princeton attack, which collapsed almost completely in the second half at Providence.

About all the Tigers have going for them in the pregame estimates is their ability in their recent years of travail to do well against Harvard teams which have had considerably superior manpower. The 4-5 Tigers of '71 whipped the Crimson at Cambridge, 21 to 10, and one of the three games the 1972 Orange and Black team won was by 10-7 over Harvard here.

Last year's deeply-troubled Princetonians had a major upset within reach before bowing, 19 to 14. This fall's Harvard team is, however, considerably more impressive than any of its three immediate predecessors, while the Tigers still have so many weaknesses that it is difficult to determine which is the most serious. Such a combination of factors does not indicate the likelihood of a close score at the end of the game.

HARD GAME TO LOSE

But Tigers Found a Way. How can you lose a football game to a team which not only had failed to win since September 28 but hadn't even scored a touchdown since then? Topping that off, in the course of its game with you, it:

- Loses three fumbles, one on its own one-yard line;

Ivy League Football

	W	L	T	Pct.
Harvard	4	0	0	1.000
Yale	4	0	0	1.000
Penn	2	1	1	.625
Princeton	2	2	0	.500
Cornell	1	2	1	.375
Brown	1	3	0	.250
Dartmouth	1	3	0	.250
Columbia	0	4	0	.000

- Throws four interceptions;
- Loses its starting quarterback early in the game and has to go with a senior whose career has been so pock-marked with inconsistency that the hometown fans boo him when he takes the field—a reaction almost unprecedented in Ivy League football.

Handed such largesse at Providence Saturday, Princeton gave it all back to Brown by:

- Losing its first touchdown on a holding penalty;
- Having four kicks blocked—three of them worth a total of six points to Brown in a game it won by four;
- Failing to complete a single pass in the second half while its starting quarterback was on the field;
- Giving up the winning touchdown on a wobbly pass to a slow tight end so overlooked by the defensive secondary that no Princeton defender was within 15 yards of him as the play covered 78 yards into the end zone.

One-Man Offense. Among other unwelcome developments, the 17-13 loss to the oft-beaten Bruins confirmed the growing belief that the Tigers have only one player who can be counted on to move the ball for them. Walt Snickenberger ran for 118 yards and both the losers' touchdowns, maintaining a place for himself nationally among the leaders in both yardage and points scored. He has 673 yards and 10 touchdowns in six games.

But no other backs are contributing to the offense as ball carriers, and quarterback Rob Beible showed again that there is no telling when his productivity will grind to a halt. His problems in the first half at Penn were small in stature to the difficulty he suddenly encountered against Brown, and for the first time in his 15-game career at Princeton, he was temporarily withdrawn by Bob Casciola for overall ineffectiveness.

The Tigers were unable to run much in the opening half, save for Snickenberger's 48-yard shot around the left flank on which he was hit four times but never stopped. Beible, on the other hand, completed 13 of 21 for 185 yards and appeared to have the game in some degree of control, even though the Tigers led by only 7-2 at the intermission.

When play resumed, however, the Princeton offensive line was totally outplayed. The running game continued to stall, Beible never hit a receiver and was repeatedly sacked, losing the unusually high total of 64 yards before he could get rid of the ball. He was also involved in some of the five fumbles debited to the Orange and Black, only one of which they lost but all of which cost valuable yardage.

The Tide Turns. Brown's offensive line, unable to pave the way for its backs to score in 18 consecutive quarters, began to outplay the Tiger defense in the second half. The Bruins took the third third-quarter kickoff 60 yards to the Princeton five before settling for a field goal.

Less than two minutes later, Brown got the ball back when Beible fumbled on a blitz, and this time the home team went 28 yards for a touchdown that put it ahead, 11 to 7. It was after a lob pass, which Beible should have rifled, was picked off in the Brown end zone that Casciola benched him in favor of junior Greg Adams.

A punt return, aided by a 15-yard penalty against Brown, then gave the Orange and Black the ball on the home team 32. An errant pitchout took them all the way back to the Brown 45, but Adams got them to the one foot line in the ensuing series, where Snick was stopped short on fourth down.

The Bruins promptly fumbled the ball back, Snickenberger made good on his second chance, and it was 13-11, Princeton, when the p.a.t. was blocked with the fourth quarter half gone. Three plays after the kickoff, Brown broke the back of Princeton's bid for a superb rebuilding season with its last-ditch, playground-type touchdown pass. The Tigers had possession twice thereafter but never crossed midfield; on one series of downs, Beible threw four consecutive incomplete passes.

It had been 20 years, almost to the day, since Brown last defeated Princeton at Providence. The back-to-back triumphs for the Bruins, including last year's 7-6 success here, in which Princeton failed to score a touchdown, marked the first time since 1930 and '31 that this opponent has defeated Princeton two years in a row.

Following a scoreless first half, Hilton quarterback Mike McManus got his team on the scoreboard with a play action pass to fullback Tim Bertone in the flat. Bertone broke three tackles enroute to a 35-yard pass play.

In the final period, McManus intercepted a Tim Martin pass. Bertone, alternating carries with Steve Budd and Mike McCabe, moved the ball 60 yards to the Sibson 20 behind the excellent blocking of Mark Bessire, Mike Cifelli, John Denny, Andrew Root, Chip Zahner, Todd, Leeuwenburgh and Major Brown. McManus then tossed to Brown, his right end, for the final 20 yards. Budd scored the extra point.

Hilton's final tally came with less than a minute to play when Budd went off left tackle from six yards out. Bertone converted the extra point.

Hilton's defense was led by Bertone, John Denny, Bessire, Brown, McManus and Tony Sullivan; for Sibson, by Mike Kennedy, Ned Thompson, Chuck Harris, Jay Sibson, Tim Martin, Erik Jensen and Tom Hendry.

Margolis Scores. Paul Margolis rushed for the only touchdown in the final quarter in the Peterson win over Cleaver.

Larry McKeller, Andy Charen, Don Casciola and Margolis led the Peterson offense, while Dan Miller, Tim Koether and Billy Snead paced the Cleaver attack.

Defensive standouts for both squads included Ed Furfey, Kent Hendrickson, David Yim and McKeller for Peterson and Dan Miller, Peter Nelson, Tim Kennedy, Scott Gabrielson and Koether for Cleaver.

Princeton High Loses Fourth Straight Game— To Play Tough Steinert Eleven Away Saturday

Mistakes and turnovers, which were committed by both sides with astonishing rapidity, marred last week's Princeton High School-St Anthony game, won by St Anthony, 13-7.

The Iron Mikes took advantage of a PHS fumble and defensive lapse to score both their TDs, while Princeton's lone score came on a 28-yard pass interception by Steve Tomlinson, who also kicked the extra point. PHS, in losing its fourth straight, played the entire game without its starting quarterback, Pete Watson, sidelined with a knee injury.

LION INTERCEPTS, FRUITS SHORT-LIVED: PHS defensive halfback Dave Lion leaps high to intercept St. Anthony pass in the first period, but the fruits of his turnover were short-lived. On the next play, PHS fumbled on its own nine-yard line to set up St. Anthony's first tally. Iron Mikes won, 13-7.

As a result, the Little Tigers will play their last three games needing a victory in each if they are to give coach Jim Beachell a winning season in his first year as head coach.

Notre Dame and Trenton, Princeton's last two opponents, aren't doing anything this year, but next week's--Steinert--is.

The Spartans toyed with Trenton in their last start to win their third straight, 25-0. The Steinert defense limited Trenton to two first downs in the second half and the Green and White has an outstanding quarterback in Joe Leone.

The game, Princeton's third straight away, will be played at the Steinert field Saturday, starting at 1:30.

Barnett at Quarterback. The scenario for the St. Anthony game was penalty, turnover, penalty, turnover ad infinitum. In place of Watson, Pete Barnett started at quarterback.

Guard and defensive captain Alex Kinnan traded places for the entire game with fullback Jeff Benfer (Benfer was caught three times as an ineligible receiver down field--logical for a former fullback--which cost PHS 45 yards). Out with a bruised shoulder, and perhaps for the rest of the season, was center Nate Harris. So PHS had some legimate excuses for not being sharp.

Barnett's second pass of the game was intercepted but PHS got the ball back three plays later when Dave Lion leaped high to intercept a St. Anthony option pass. On the next play, however, PHS fumbled the snapback and St. Anthony recovered on the PHS nine.

On fourth down, Rich Lucas was stopped short of a TD but PHS was detected off-side. Given another chance, Lucash plunged over from the one. The conversion kick was good.

PHS was soon in the hole again when Bob McHugh, back to punt, dropped the snapback and was tackled on the 26. Tomlinson rescued his teammates this time with an interception.

Not long after, when John Madden recovered another Iron Mike fumble (the dry weather had turned the field into a dust bowl) PHS connected for its best gainer of the game. Barnett passed 39 yards to Madden to the St. Anthony 29 but, Kinnan fumbled the ball away on the next play. Another long gainer, Barnett passing to Thommy Thomas in motion, was nullified by a penalty.

More of the Same. The second half was a carbon copy of the error-ridden first half. At quarterback now for the first time for PHS was Tommy Thomas, who had quarterbacked the PHS sophomore team.

Following an intereception by Barnett of a jump pass, Robert Wood and Thomas ran for first downs to the home-team ten. However, PHS coughed up the ball again when Wood was never able to get the handle on Thomas's slightly errant pitchback, and St. Anthony recovered.

PHS tied the game a few plays later when Tomlinson intercepted Mark Slafkowsky.

Another interception of a Thomas pass intended for McHugh set up St. Anthony's winning TD. After a double reverse carried to the 25, Slafkowsky battled through adversity which included a holding penalty, a clipping penalty and a pass batted down by Barnett.

But on a 2-and-25, he hit end Mike Babice cutting across the middle on a slant-in and the home team has its victory. "My best defensive back--Lion--got burned," commented Beachell after the game.

PHS was not ready to roll over yet. A 55-yard punt by Tomlinson that carried 73 yards to the St. Anthony seven put the Iron Mikes in a hole with two minutes left. The home team managed to make one first down but then, after PHS had taken its last time out it had to punt with 30 seconds left.

The kick was high and short, and PHS returned to the 40. Thomas threw one incomplete pass when the referee ruled the game was over. The scoreboard clock was not working.

Beachell pursued the timer for an explanation of what he felt was a fast clock. He reported that the timer told him it took 20 seconds to return the punt and that PHS had only 10 left when it got the ball. Another official, Beachell said, told him PHS had 30 seconds left when it got the ball.

"We had two new quarterbacks and we couldn't get one relaxed enough to do a good job," said Beachell later. Watson says he expects to play in the Steinert game.

Considering the pressure he was under, Thomas did a good job running and passing. Almost lost in all the mistakes was an outstanding defensive game by Wood, a linebacker on defense.

"THOUGHT WE COULD..."

Hun Does It, 27-0, to PDS. "I thought we could beat them--we had seen them play and we have a big first team--but you never know about these cross-town rivalries," commented Hun coach Dave Leete.

Well, his team did do it in spades, ruining an otherwise fine season for Princeton Day School and its super runner, Bill Martin, shutting them both out, 27-0. Asked later if he was surprised at the margin, Leete replied: No, I thought the score could be this lopsided if we played a good game and didn't make any mistakes. I wanted it to be this big," he added.

To no one's surprise, Hun keyed on Martin who had entered the game with 18 touchdowns and 1,430 yards in offense in six games, better than 200 yards a game, and earning him a writeup in the New York Times. "Did we key on Martin? Sure we did and anybody who plays them and doesn't is crazy," said Leete.

Hun held Martin scoreless and limited him to far below his rushing average--81 yards by Hun's count; 125 by PDS's. Hun, which increased its record to 4-2, (it was 1-7 last year) thus was able to protect its string of never having lost to a PDS eleven. Martin has one more year left to change that.

Pingry Next. The only road block between Hun and a 6-2 season (the finale with Admiral Farragut figures to go Hun's way) is Pingry, which Hun will meet Friday afternoon at 2:45 in Hillside.

Pingry's record is the reverse of Hun's (2-4) but Leete reports that Pingry has "it's whole team back from last year." Last year, Pingry routed Hun, 32-0, so Hun expects a rugged afternoon.

Hun Gaining Confidence. Hun, however, appears to be gaining in confidence and ability with every game and its sureness was never more in evidence that it was against PDS

The game had been billed as a battle between Martin and Hun's Terry McEwen, who has been averaging more than 100 yards rushing a game. McEwen struck first, intercepting a PDS pass in the first period and returning it 40 yards for the game's first score. Later, in the third period, he scored from six yards out.

In between, Hun quarterback John Cirelli, who was 10 for 14 passing, crashed through the middle of the Panther line for 12 yards for Hun's second TD in the first period, and later passed 10 yards to Tom Summers to give Hun a 20-0 halftime bulge. A newcomer to the Hun squad, Cirelli is a post-graduate student from Providence.

Hun kept PDS offtrack by forcing the Panthers into seven turnovers, including four interceptions. "We knew PDS couldn't throw deep so we rotated our halfbacks and we were able to come up with those interceptions," said Leete. "It was a good win," he said, attributing it to an overall team victory.

PDS, in turn, held McEwen to 28 yards in seven carries, his lowest output of the season by far--far below the 172 yards he had in the opener. But with the defensive lid that Hun clamped on PDS, one touchdown was all it needed.

HUN TOO STRONG

For PDS Eleven. The Princeton Day football team ended its season without the icing on the cake last Friday, absorbing a 27-0 shlacking from a big and aggressive Hun School squad.

The loss left the Panthers with a 5-2 mark, and still looking for their first victory over their crosstown rival on the gridiron. However, PDS did accomplish its main objective of the season, winning the Class B state title. Hun is a member of Class A.

"All of our weaknesses came back to haunt us," commented coach John Boneparth, reviewing the Hun defeat. "We had hoped to get by without making any mistakes early in the contest, but we turned the ball over four or five times in the first half."

Specifically, PDS did not get the blocking it needed from the offensive line to spring fullback Bill Martin, its prime weapon. Martin gained 125 yards on the day in 25 carries, but never got loose on any long runs.

"Our only offensive weapon was the end sweep, and Martin gained most of that solely by his own effort," Boneparth pointed out.

On defense, Boneparth lamented that the Panthers could not stop the "Key plays." He felt that the passing of Hun quaterback John Cirelli (who was 10 for 14 for 87 yards) made the big difference.

McEWEN CARRIES FOR FIRST DOWN: Terry McEwen carries for a first down in the third period during Hun's 27-0 victory Friday over rival PDS. The Panthers held McEwen, who has averaged 110 yards a game, to 28 in seven carries, his lowest output yet. But McEwen won his scoring duel with the Panthers' Bill Martin when he intercepted a PDS pass and returned it 40 yards to score Hun's first TD.

WEST WINDSOR WINS

14-0 For First Victory. Two first half touchdowns and a stingy defense that limited the opposition to three yards rushing in the second half were all the ingredients needed by the West Windsor football team to record its first win of the season, a 14-0 triumph last week over home-team Bordentown. The loss was the sixth straight for winless Bordentown.

"The two scores gave us momentum and I think helped keep down the other team, which hadn't won a game," commented West Windsor coach Rex Walker. He agreed that the first win was a big morale booster for his team.

The Pirates will need all the morale they can retain when they meet St. Anthony Saturday at 1:30 at their home field this season, Mercer County Park. "It should be a real good hitting game," said Walker.

St. Anthony, victor over Princeton High in its last start, tries a lot of razzle-dazzle plays and "it is hard," said Walker, "for a young team to defense that stuff."

In addition, the Pirates will enter the fray minus starting end Dave Duncan who broke his arm trying to catch a 664 YARDS, 8 TDs: One reason why the Hun football team is 4-2 this season is Terry McEwen, a fleet halfback who has rushed for 664 yards and scored eight TDs. The son of Mrs. Elizabeth McEwen, 161 John Street, Terry is the younger brother of Ron McEwen, PHS halfback who helped lead the Little Tigers to a 7-2 record in 1967.

touchdown pass. Duncan, who plays both ways will be out for the remaining three games. Quarterback Daryl Macpherson also suffered some painful back bruises in the final period against Bordentown and had to be carried from the field. Walker reports that it is "iffy" whether he will start against St. Anthony.

West Windsor scored in its first series of plays, driving 51 yards and ending a four-game shutout drought. The final 26 yards came on a perfectly-executed option pitch from MacPherson to Chris Holcombe. Bill Schroeder kicked the first of two conversions.

A recovered fumble by Tom Murphy on the Scotties' 20-yard line set up West Windsor's second score. Macpherson passed 15 yards to David Bornheimer and then Murphy plunged over for the six-pointer with 10:27 still left in the half.

Duncan also recovered a Bordentown fumble in the first half and Rich Wilson and Donny Hutchinson intercepted Scotty passes in the second half to keep the home team untracked. Jimmy Emerson, one of the smallest players on the field and the Pirate safetyman, contributed to the tight West Windsor defense with six tackles.

CONOVER, RUG MART WIN

In Midget Football. Nassau Conover blanked Princeton Fuel Oil, 14-0, and Rug Mart nipped the University Store, 2-0, in games last Sunday in the Princeton Midget Football League. The teams will close out the regular season this Sunday.

Tentative plans call for an all-star game between Princeton and West Windsor to be played November 30 on a Princeton University field.

An improved passing game carried Nassau Conover to its victory over Fuel Oil. The winners also scored two points on a safety. Chris Price and Jay Budd led the Conover offense, while Kelley Robinson, Mike Root and Leroy Hunninlake stood out on defense.

Standouts for the losers included Dwight Bullock, Jeff Raser, Pete Sharpless and Andy Jensen on offense and Mike Petrocelli and Mike Thompson on defense.

A disputed safety provided the margin of victory for Rug Mart against the U-Store. However, the winners also had a 70-yard touchdown run by Dave Fitzgerald called back because of holding penalty. John Farrey and Bob Littel also played well on offense for the winners, while Greg Davidson, Kent Wilkinson and Rick Galiardo led the defensive charge.

The loser's defense, which was unscored upon, was bolstered by John Thompson, Jordan Paul, Doug Ferguson and Cal Harris. Don Johnson and Tom Seiler stood out offensively for the U-Store.

Senior Division players, ages 13 and 14, should be at Dillon between 9 and 10:30 in the morning. Teams will be formed and practices will start on November 16.

9-Year Old Victor in Punt, Pass and Kick

Nine-year-old Reid Horovitz has won the district championship for his age group in the Ford Punt, Pass and Kick district competition at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia.

Reid, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Zola Horovitz of 30 Phillips Drive, is sponsored in PP&K by Nassau-Conover Motor Company, State Road.

He will proceed to the area competition at Veterans Stadium, December 1, where he will compete against another nine-year-old prior to and at halftime of the Philadelphia Eagles-Green Bay Packers game. The preceding Saturday the contestants will be honored at a reception and dinner attended by several of the Eagles players.

Winners at the area competition in each age level eight through 13 will earn a trip to the divisional competition in Washington, December 15, while the Washington Redskins play the Chicago Bears.

PP&K, co-sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America and the National Football League, again this year attracted well over a million boys and girls throughout the country.

Peewee Hockey to Start

The Lawrence Peewee Ice Hockey Association in its eighth season has limited openings for boys in the 7, 8 and 9-year old group. Their first practice will be held November 10 on the Lawrenceville School rink.

In addition to a full schedule of intramural play, the All-Star Peewee team will defend its 1973 title in the Lawrenceville Invitational Tournament, while the 10-year old Squirts will be out to repeat their first place finish in the Pottstown Tournament.

Information about placement for the younger boys may be obtained from Harlan Whitehead, 896-0922.
